

6TH HAD SPACE FOR JOY

Ruben Warren (seated in the backseat on the passenger side), three-time president of the Elks Club and owner of the Royal Barber Shop on the Lyndale side of the Kistler, riding in the Elks Car during the Aquatennial Parade in the 1940s.

Courtesy Hennepin County Library and the children of John Glanton

Elks Club event in the 1940s.

Courtesy Hennepin County Library and the children of John Glanton

6TH HAD SPACE FOR COOPERATION

Store manager Louis Barry and store clerk Irene Harvey unpack goods at the Sumner Field Co-Op. Sumner Field Home residents organized this cooperative buying club in August 1941.

Courtesy Hennepin County Library

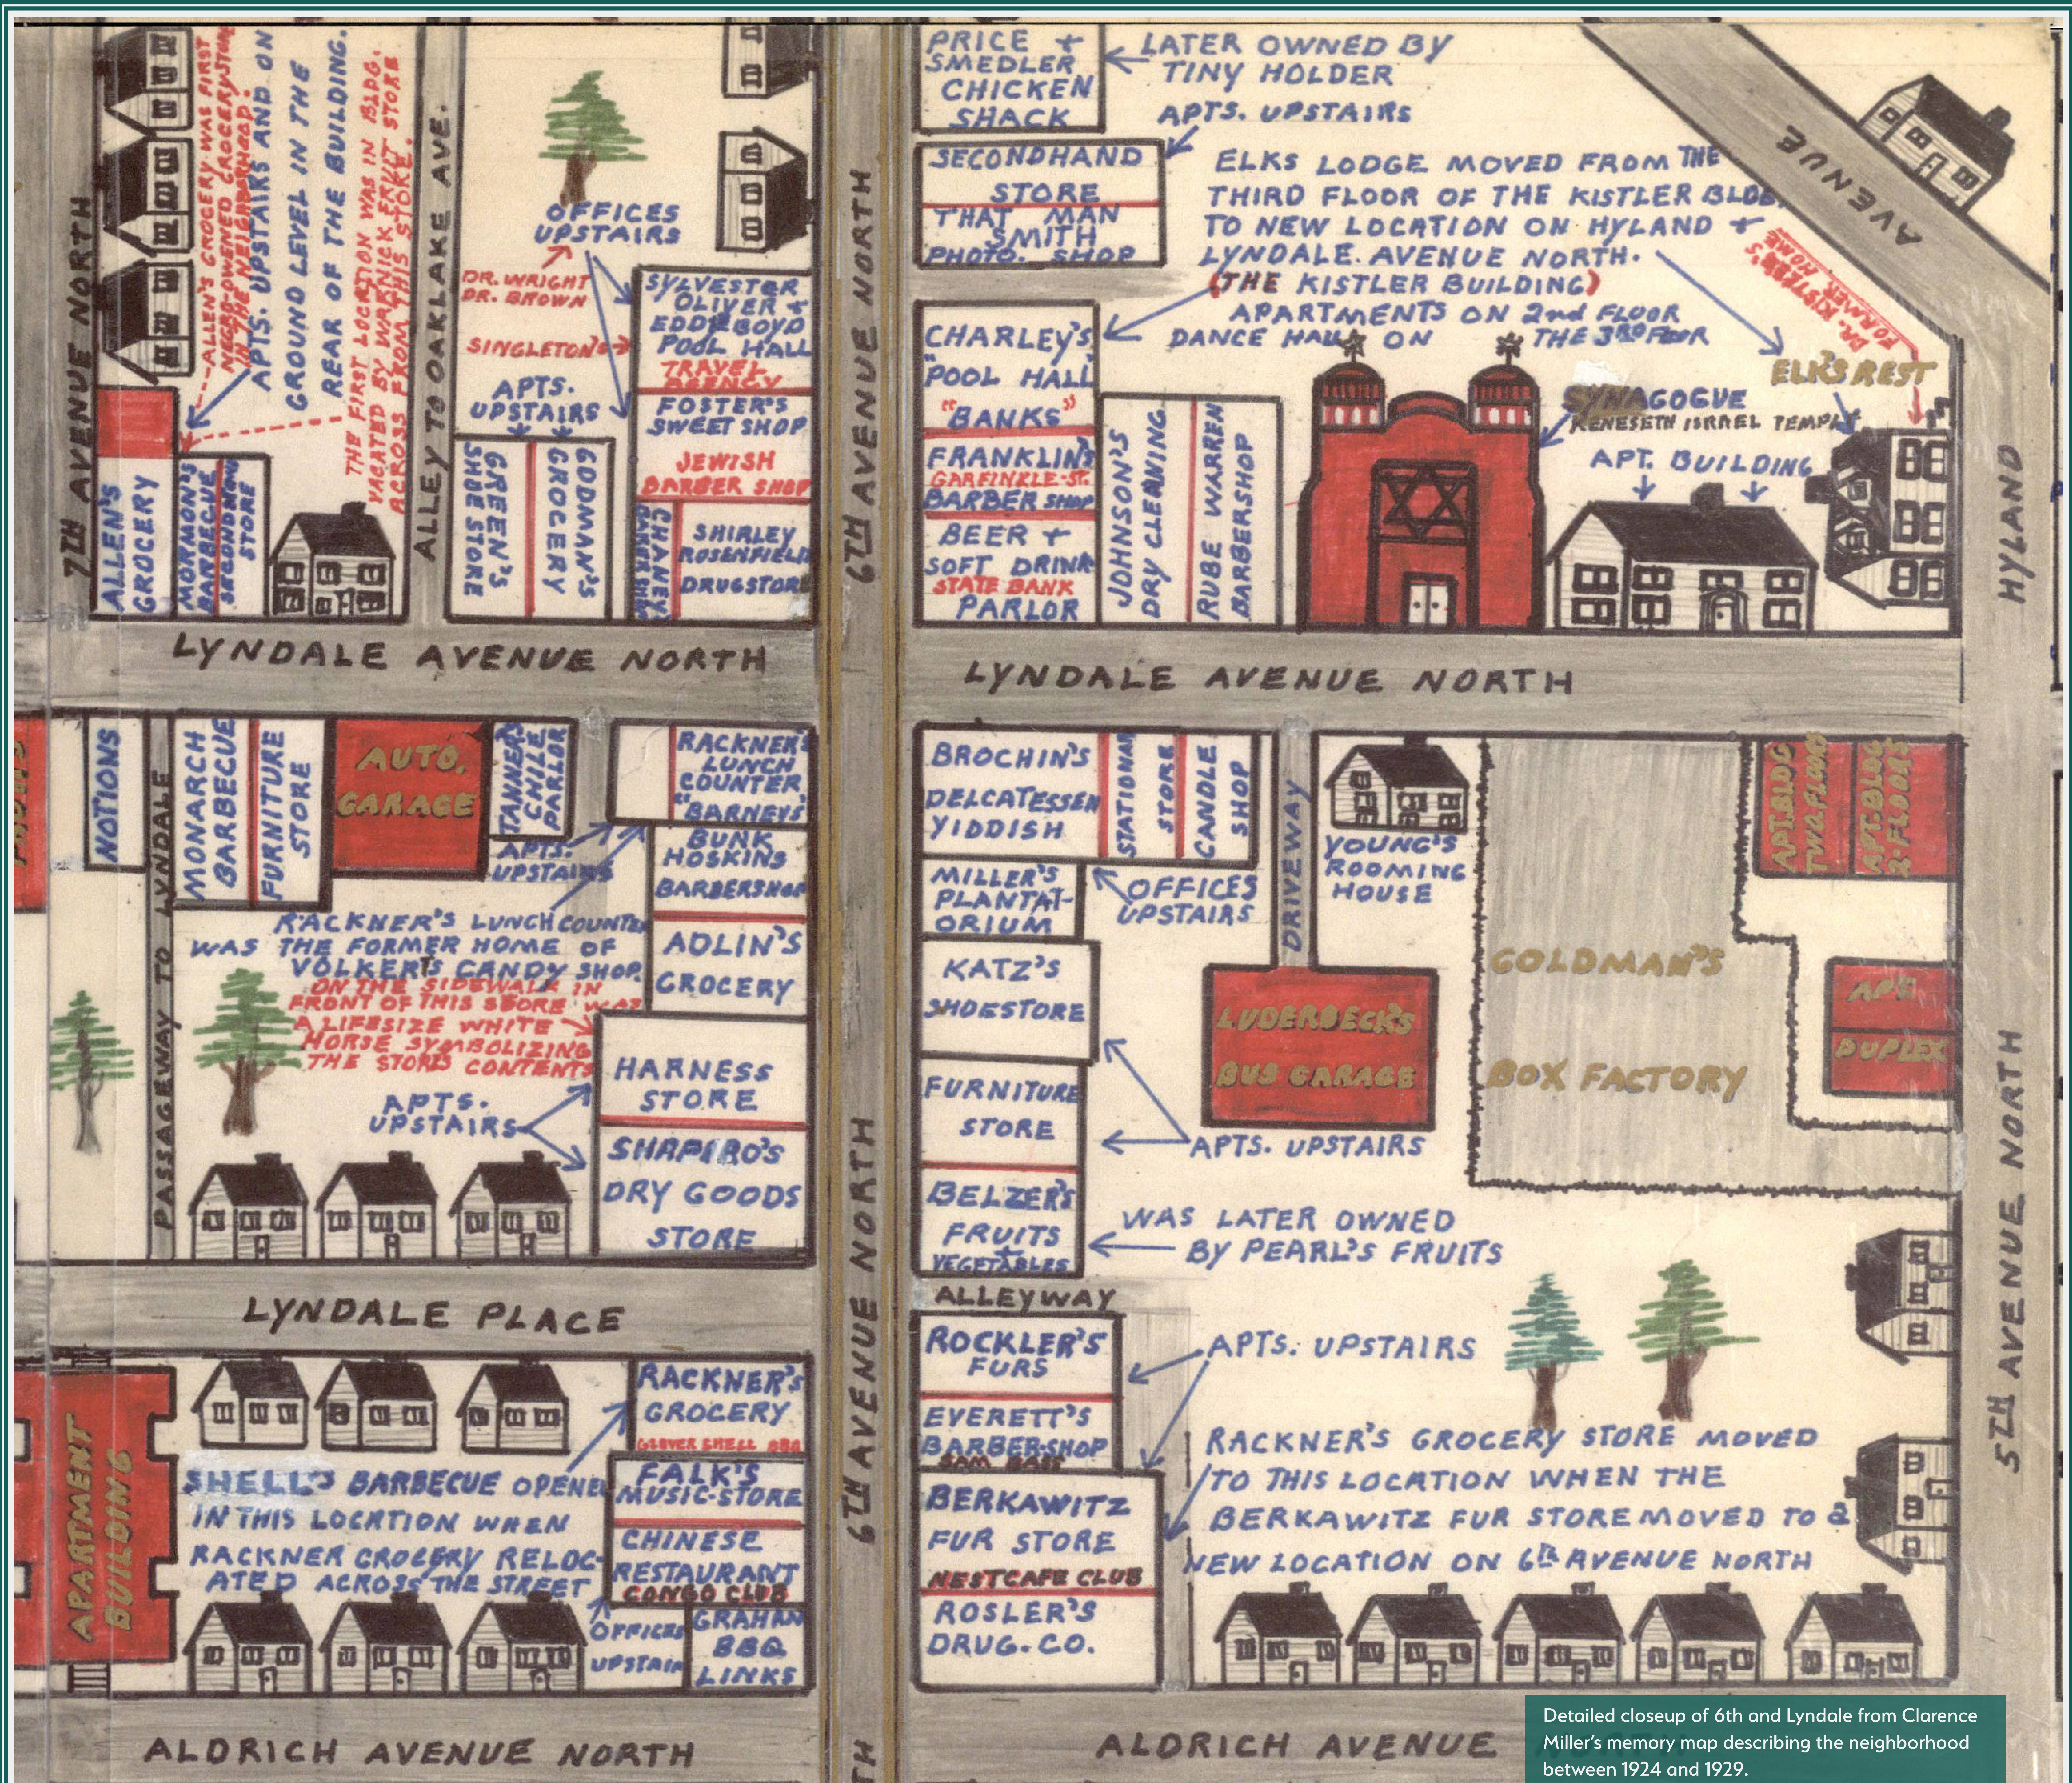

Sumner Field offered Black and Jewish kids a place to play together in the summer and ice skate in the winter, 1936.

Courtesy Hennepin County Library

JUNE 17 1936

6TH HAD SPACE FOR COMMUNITY

Detailed closeup of 6th and Lyndale from Clarence Miller's memory map describing the neighborhood between 1924 and 1929. Courtesy Hennepin County Library

6TH HAD SPACE FOR CULTURE

The Prince Rogers Trio band included Prince's father, John Lewis Nelson (on the left), whose favorite stage name was "Prince Rogers," 1940s. Courtesy Hennepin County Library and the children of John Glanton

Patrons at the Dreamland Cafe, 1940. Courtesy Hennepin County Library and the children of John Glanton

THE HIGHWAY DID
NOT HAVE SPACE FOR HOMES

A family in their apartment before it was demolished for the Glenwood
Redevelopment, 1957.
Courtesy Minnesota Historical Society

Highway Delicatessen and Grill at 1019 Olson Memorial Highway, 1957.
Courtesy Minnesota Historical Society

THE HIGHWAY DID
NOT HAVE SPACE FOR BUSINESS

8-7-57 photo
Marion Pcell photo
1019-21 Olson Hwy.
7-10
246-795

THE SPIRIT OF
THESE SPACES
LIVES ON IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD

Ben Brochin in his family's delicatessen, 1950.
Courtesy University of Minnesota Libraries

Visionary Minneapolis businessman Archie Givens got his start with the Givens Ice Cream Parlor at 701 Olson Memorial Highway (in the old Brochin's location), established 1947 and demolished for the highway expansion in 1957.
Courtesy University of Minnesota Libraries

WE THINK IT'S TIME TO MAKE SPACE FOR US ON 6TH AGAIN

IN THE PAST OUTSIDE FORCES DROVE NEIGHBORHOOD
CHANGE

DON'T YOU
THINK IT'S TIME
WE SAW BOLD
VISIONS DRIVEN
BY RESIDENTS
GET AS MUCH ACTION?

1 Sam Allen's Cafe & BBQ at 712 6th Avenue North and The People's Store at 710 6th Avenue North, 1922.

Courtesy University of Minnesota Libraries

2 The Cleveland Wrecking Company sign announcing clearance of homes and businesses on 6th Avenue North, 1938.

Courtesy Hennepin County Library

3 Workers demolish a former business on 6th Avenue North for the Sumner Field Homes, 1936.

Courtesy Hennepin County Library